John Bedell was transferred from the Third Auditor's Office to this office on the 29th of March, 1854, at a salary of $1,400, under the act of April 22, 1854, but, by a late order, he is to be paid at the rate of $1,600 from the date of his transfer to this office.

William Stickney was transferred to this office from the Sixth Auditor's Office about the latter part of November last, at a salary of $1,200 per annum.

The foregoing statement exhibits the names of the clerks and other persons employed, respectively, during the year terminating December 31, 1854, or any part thereof, together with the time that each clerk or other person was actually employed. In my opinion the services of none of them can be dispensed with without detriment to the public service, nor is the removal of any of them and the appointment of others in their stead required for the better despatch of business.

ELISHA WHITTLESEY.

T. L. SMITH, Auditor.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, FIRST AUDITOR'S OFFICE, January 25, 1855.

No. 4.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

Third Auditor's Office, January 3, 1854.

SIR: In conformity with the 9th section of the act of 20th April, 1818, and the 11th section of the act of the 26th August, 1842, I have the honor to transmit, herewith, a statement containing the names of the clerks, and other persons, who have been employed in this office under authority of law during the year 1854, exhibiting the time each was employed, the amount paid to each, and the State or Territory of their residence at the time of their appointment.

Relative to "whether the services of any clerk can be dispensed with without detriment to the public service, and whether the removal of any individuals, and the appointment of others in their stead, is required for the better despatch of business," I would state that from the heavy and increasing business in this bureau, and in view of the fact that the force has been reduced from eighty-two to seventy-one clerks during the past year, I could not safely recommend any further reduction at the present time. So far as I have had the opportunity of becoming personally acquainted with the habits, capacity, and industry of the clerks individually, it affords me pleasure to bear testimony to their general good deportment, industrious application to business, and capacity to discharge the important duties which devolve on this branch of the Treasury Department. Should any exceptions, however, at any time fall under my observation, they will promptly be reported to you.

With great respect, your obedient servant,

ROBERT J. ATKINSON,

Auditor.

HON. JAMES GUTHRIE,

Secretary of the Treasury.

Relative to "whether the service of any clerk can be dispensed with without detriment to the public service, and whether the removal of any individuals, and the appointment of others in their stead, is required for the better despatch of business," I would state, that from the heavy and increasing business in this bureau, and in view of the fact that the force has been reduced from eighty-two to seventy-one clerks during the past year, I could not safely recommend any further reduction at the present time. So far as I have had the opportunity of becoming personally acquainted with the habits, capacity, and industry of the clerks, individually, it affords me pleasure to bear testimony to their general good deportment, industrious application to business, and capacity to discharge the important duties which devolve upon this branch of the Treasury Department. Should any exceptions, however, at any time fall under my observation, they will be promptly reported to you.
